

“The Greatest Park in Texas”
GALB-R101 – GREATEST PARK :60

MUSIC: Up and under

ANNCR: The greatest park in Texas is open all the time.

There are no slides, no monkey bars,
but you can be sure it's one very big playground.

In this park, there aren't any restaurants,
but it feeds the whole state.

It's Galveston Bay.

And it really is the Greatest Park in Texas.

Sure, it's the recreational boating and fishing capital of the lone star state, but it's more than that.

It's connected to all of us.

It supplies our restaurants.

It fuels our economy.

It protects us. And we protect it. By observing water restrictions, planting native plants, and disposing of waste properly, we can all back the bay.

Even if we don't live right next door, the bay has our back. And we have its back, back.

We invite you to come visit.

And until then, find other simple ways to help protect one of Texas' most valuable natural resources at BacktheBay.org.
